

This 'broadcast flag' scheme will do absolutely nothing to stop TV 'piracy' no more than copy-protected CDs have done to stop music piracy. All in all, I think this is a wasted government effort that will neither benefit consumers nor will it benefit content providers. Effort that's better spent on health care and education instead of bending over to the whims of Hollywood.